Primary schools are ranked on their performance in standard assessment tests (Sats) taken in 2018. We have taken the average scaled scores achieved by children in three areas – reading, GPS (grammar, punctuation and spelling) and mathematics – and aggregated their outcomes. Average scores were awarded to schools in the range of 80 up to 120, with 100 representing the expected standard children should achieve by the end of year 6. A score of 110 or above in any of the three measures indicates children working at a “higher” level of attainment. Among our top 500 schools, the combined average scores are in the range 350 (No 1) to 329 (No 500). Where scores are tied, we have used the number of pupils achieving the given score as a separator. So, a school with a 60-strong cohort of year 6 students will rank higher than a school with a cohort of 30 when tied on the same score. The table is shown ranked initially by the aggregate of the three scores for reading, GPS and maths. It is possible to re-rank the table on the three individual measures by clicking on the top of the relevant column. Only those schools where 20 or more pupils on average have taken these examinations are included in this ranking of 500 schools. We also publish the proportions of children reaching both the expected level of attainment and a higher level of attainment for reading, writing, grammar and maths individually, and reading, writing and maths combined. Additional data from 2018: Sats are included on the individual school profile pages to show the progress achieved in reading, writing and mathematics by pupils at the individual schools. This is included beneath their average scaled scores for reading, GPS and maths respectively in each instance. The number of points above or below the level expected to be achieved by the children, taking account of their starting points educationally at the age of seven, is shown. For all schools, we have included their attainment in the new-style Sats in 2017 and 2016. These are shown beneath the 2018 outcomes. For many schools that have featured in our rankings for several years, we have reproduced on their individual profile pages (accessible by clicking on the school name in the league table) the level 5 or higher attainment of pupils in old-style Sats taken in 2015, 2014 and 2013. The proportions of pupils achieving level 5 or higher at key stage 2 (taken by 11-year-olds) in English reading, English writing, English grammar and maths are shown. Level 5 attainment was that expected of a 13-year-old, in other words two years above the age of the children sitting these tests. Further historic Sats data from 2012 and before at level 4 (the expected level of attainment for children aged 11) can also be found on some of the individual school profile pages.
